Be the Church

It's good to finally be here.

Moving is a major pain. It would be great if boxes could just pack themselves. Unfortunately, as I have learned, that's not how packing works. Each possession must be evaluated as to whether it should be tossed, donated, or packed. At times, this process can be painful and time consuming.

While packing the basement, I picked up my 4-foot Super Soaker water gun I purchased in the 5th grade. Memories of my neighborhood friends instantly flooded my mind. Still, I had to consider if I -a 31 year old pastor- would ever realistically use the water gun again or if it was time to say goodbye. When I came to my decision, 15 minutes had passed!

To make matters more complicated, during the final days of packing, Grace was rear-ended on the highway and Noelle caught a fever. Life was miserable for those stretch of days. So, when we were greeted to a beautifully prepared parsonage with a thoughtful gift basket and a train of delicious home-cooked meals, I could have yelled from the mountaintops, "It's good to finally be here!"

Indeed, my family and I have experienced a warm and hospitable welcome. Thank you. The love is palpable and words can hardly express the gratitude we hold in our hearts. CUMC, you have floored us!

Interestingly enough, my earliest impression of Commerce UMC dates a few years back. My mom runs a dry cleaner in a small plaza. She is sandwiched between a hair salon and an alterations shop both owned by fellow female entrepreneurs. They get along quite well. Then, on the far end of the plaza is a gentleman who owns a full service custom frame shop. Apparently, when it snows at the plaza, he shovels the snow. When ice accumulates on the sidewalks, he salts it. It's not his responsibility, but he does it simply to be a good neighbor. For years, that has served as a great comfort for me.

As it so happens, this good neighbor is a member of CUMC. His name is Rob Gulf. He was my first impression of CUMC, and he left a good one. With that, I already knew I was arriving to a church that seeks to share Christ's love in concrete, tangible ways. This month and always let us continue to be the church where we live, work, and play. It's a small world and our actions matter.

May God bless you so that you can be a blessing to others.

Pastor Andy Lee

I wanted to share a couple of things that will help you earn donations for your church through UMCmarket.org.

This month is "Christmas in July DOUBLE Donation Month"!

The entire month of July your church will earn double donations from select retailers. You don't need to make any changes to your purchases, just make sure you choose Commerce UMC as the church to receive your donation. Sign in to the mall and select your favorite retailers. When you do your normal online shopping, Commerce UMC earns a donation on each purchase based on the pre-arranged % of giving from featured retailers being doubled all month long.

From new sneakers to copy paper to booking a trip, you will earn donations for your church that will become part of their funds used for their mission work both local and worldwide. UMCmarket is free to do for both you and the church, it's easy and the fastest way to raise funds through online shopping.

Life Line Screening, the nation's leading provider of preventive health screenings, will offer affordable, non-invasive and painless health screenings at Commerce UM Church on Thursday, Aug. 8, 2019.
